Afternoon Frock That Will Interest Women

Crystal plaited chiffon, beneath all-over embroidery in gold color, is used to make this charming afternoon gown, ornamented with girle and rosette of white beads.

To Dress and Look Cool on Sultry Summer Days

Life nowadays is altogether too much fussed-up. We all admit it. But you have no idea how, taking your courage in hand, you can pull off the silly old outfit coverings, and get at something goldenly simple. Just for one example, observe a writer in the Woman's Home Companion: "If your hair is hot and heavy on your head and hard to keep in order, cut some of it out. Don't be afraid. Maybe your husband does admire it. He doesn't have to take care of it."

The first thing to do if you have long heavy hair is to shorten it. What's the use of carrying around a lot of old hair, anyway? It just wads up in a bunch on your head and acts like a warming pan. But if your hair grows thickly on your head, shortening doesn't cool you off very much. My suggestion then is that you have some one thin it out for you carefully much as you'd thin out the enrol row in the early summer. Cut small pieces out close to the scalp in several places, being careful to take it from underneath where the cut-out regions will be well concealed by your coiffure. Don't let the hair that grows low on the neck.

Delightfully refreshing for hot weather, too, are the so-called hair lotions which have all the cooling virtues of toilet water but are especially adapted for the hair. A few drops on your scalp around the edges of the hair seems to take away that hot, damp feeling.

Baths are one thing that you can't very well cut down in hot weather. But any day, you know, you can save enough putting or worry time for one good bath. And what a bath! A bathtub in hot weather—a bathtub filled without skimping, and smelling like a lemon meringue all on account of a handful of vervine bath salts. Filling a tub, however, one can still have a hand of water, and a spoonful of toilet water makes a sponge bath that takes off several degrees of heat. And just an ordinary air bath, sans clothes, is a wonderful freshener. It's a very good thing, especially in summer, to remove your clothes for a little while each day, and let your pores get a good, deep breath of air.

Lace Mitts Take Place in Fashions of Summer

Like a remnant of finery from the fashion of older times are the pretty lace mitts that have suddenly become the last word in summer styles. Of course, old ladies have always worn mitts, and the more conservative shops have continued to honor their fancy and retain their petticoats. But the revival of mitts had a definite starting point in an English wedding at which the bride wore long mitts of exquisite white lace and the bridesmaids shorter mitts of silk in an open lace pattern, of a delicate shade of mauve, matching their gowns.

This summery suggestion has been repeated in the costumes at some recent weddings in fashionable society. This side of the water, the mitts being usually of elbow length and always matching the costume. They are shown in many lovely shades, in stripes and other openwork patterns; in plain colors of glove silk, black or white, and some are stitched with bright contrasts. One of the choicest styles is a glove of lacy silk of one color trimmed at the wrist with a wee plaiting of ribbon, piped with scarlet, blue, black or green. The black and white combinations are especially smart.

Red Much in Favor

Everywhere one sees much red used, not only for hats but for entire frocks. Sports frocks of red crepe de chine or fat crepe are most attractive and, as a rule, have a scarf of the same material. Some of the newer scarves are made of crepe in a solid color with a wide border of a contrasting shade at each end. With a frock of white crepe de chine there was a scarf of white with an extremely wide band of red.

Pimples

BLOOD impurities are pumped by the heart into the face. That is what causes that grainy appearance, that muddiness, sallowness, pimples, blackheads, acne, red spots, and that "something" which no face cream, massage, or face powder can cover up or beautify. The foundation for a beautiful skin simply is not there, and no face treatment can give it to you. But increase your red blood-cells, and quickly the ruby tint of purity begins to glow in the cheeks, the complexion becomes rosy-like and immaculate. Try it. It will do it every time. S. S. S. builds the red blood, the you need for a beautiful complexion. Begin using S. S. S. at once, and give yourself what you have been working for for years.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

"Fairy Music" May Not Be Mere Imagination

Stories of fairy music in the forest, of haunted waterfalls, and mermaids singing near the seashore, long thought mere fragments of the imagination, may have a sound basis in fact. In an issue of Science, Dr. Albert Forber of the Harvard medical school reports numerous cases in which trees seem to have separated discordant sounds and noises and given back echoes in musical tones.

"In every case," he says, "the source of the sound—waves on a beach, roar of a river, buzz of motor boat or discordant human voices—was in which many pitches were present. Something in the surroundings, usually trees, must have separated the sounds according to pitch, placing those of one pitch in one place and those of another pitch elsewhere. In this respect the phenomenon appears analogous to that of white light being broken up into pure spectral colors by a prism."

This reflection of absorption of sound waves of different pitches, Doctor Forber explains, is only rarely observed. Sometimes the phenomenon is distinct and clear in one spot, yet a few paces backward or forward only the ordinary noises are heard. The frequent association of trees with these musical echoes is thought to be due to the lack of uniformity they present as a reflecting surface for the sound. Each tree apparently sends back part of the sound, and this reflection is broken up into innumerable parts on account of the varying elements of distance.

Boy Was Right There After Job He Wanted

He was a clean-cut, wide-awake young chap and he wanted a job. "I have nothing at present," said the corporation manager, "but leave your name and if anything turns up you will be notified."

"May I ask if you have made the same promise to many others," said the applicant.

"Yes, quite a few," was the reply. The boy grinned and remarked that it was no monopoly he went out.

A few days later a young man was needed in a hurry and seven telegrams were dispatched to seven waiting applicants. These were left the secretary's office when in walked Johnny on the spot, holding his telegram.

"How in the world did you get it?" gasped the executive.

"Well, sir," he answered, "the other day as I was going out I stopped and got a job as errand boy. I thought it would be a good plan to be where I could get the news quicker than the others."

Franklin Set Style

When eighteenth-century Paris was still wearing the picturesque three-cornered hat Benjamin Franklin came to regard the simple, round, black top as the mark of a republican. A queer thing derived from the steeple crowns of the Puritan Pilgrim fathers, Paris copied it and turned it into the cylinder which Christendom has worn ever since, with the exception of the United States, where it is still a queer thing derived from the steeple crowns of the Puritan Pilgrim fathers.

Paris copied it and turned it into the cylinder which Christendom has worn ever since, with the exception of the United States, where it is still a queer thing derived from the steeple crowns of the Puritan Pilgrim fathers.

Lamb's Merry Jest

One of Lamb's jobs on the Morning Post was to supply half a dozen jokes a day, for which Dan Stuart paid him 6 pence each, and held him well paid. Six fresh-baked jests a day in a tall order. The fashion of dash-colored stockings for the women proved a terrible help in time of trouble, and Lamb boasts justifiably of his masterpiece, inspired by pink stockings. He wrote that "modesty, taking her final leave of mortals, her last nymph was visible in her ascent to the heavens by the track of the glowing instep."

"Little Rock"

The principal city of Arkansas derived its name originally "La Petite Roche" and "The Little Rock" from the rocky peninsula in the Arkansas, distinguished from the "Big Rock," the site of the army post, Fort Logan H. Roots, one mile west of the city. The big rock is said to have been first discovered and named "La Roche Francaise" in 1822 by Sicut Bernard de Harpe who was in search of the emerald mountains; the little rock is now used as an abutment for a rail way bridge.

The Paramount

"THE RED WARNING"—Showing today and tomorrow at the Paramount, presents Jack Hoxie in the stellar role.

This picture is probably the best "straight" Western that studio has ever done and although there is no outstanding dramatic acting in the picture there are several dramatic situations of worth. It is filled with rapid action and some of the riding scenes are unusually spectacular. Scarcely the picture is one of the most attractive of the season. The desert shots against the rugged mountain background are particularly beautiful.

It may well be classed as a different type of Western. The story reflects two distinct themes, which involve search and ultimate finding of a "lost" gold mine, and cattle rustling.

The lost mine episode is based more or less on the cattle rustling episode and the two are woven together in an exciting and entertaining fashion.

A wealthy rancher was cleaned out by rustlers and he mortgaged his ranch to get a grub stake to search for the lost mine.

The Soisson

"WHEN THE DEVIL DRIVES," the feature picture today and tomorrow at the Soisson, is a drama of two women and their loves. Leah Baird is the author and star.

"When the Devil Drives," is one of the principal films in which both the principal roles are played by women. The picture is being released to secondary positions. This does not mean that the picture lacks romantic interest. On the contrary, it contains two particularly beautiful, interesting and gripping love stories.

"When the Devil Drives" is a powerfully dramatic story, proving that the time to look for the far tory is when woman is pitted against woman—both of the female leads are responsible, during the course of the film, for attempted murders. Vernon Steele, "the man in the case," is the victim of one of these attacks, while Mrs. Baird, as a reformed adventuress, singles the second at the hands of Arline Fetty, who has been responsible for her regeneration but who, in turn, seeks revenge—"when the Devil drives."

To such a cast add Richard Tucker and Katherine Lewis, and you have splendid acting throughout. Paul Seardon's direction is natural and forceful. In every respect, "When the Devil Drives" is an extraordinary photograph, worthy of everyone's interest.

Wednesday and Thursday Anna Q. Nilsson will be seen in "Innocence."

The Orpheum

"THE GOVERNOR'S LADY," a screen version of David Belasco's stage success, opened today at the Orpheum for a three day attraction.

"The Governor's Lady," from the pen of Alice Bradley, is a powerful story, dealing with all the romantic growth of a man who completes an education through his work and contact with big people. His wife is slow in adapting herself to his rapid development. This situation brings out a series of intensely dramatic incidents that have been presented forcefully in the picture.

The story is one that has its parallel in real life, not only in political circles but in the lives of big business executives and professional men. ### Writing on Pinhead No Longer Novelty Wandering about town one might get the idea that America had developed a new industry—that of writing the Lord's prayer on pinheads. The impression is strengthened if one takes to visiting the regions in which sidewalk hawkers, near town or along the rustic routes of the traveling show.

Considering that the man who engraved the prayer on a pin a few years ago was regarded to have gone blind and insane, as a result of his three years of application, one might almost guess to find it all the pin engraving were not dangerous. There is no fear, however, the engraved pin business has been placed on a safe and sane basis, remarks the New York Times.

The original pin was all that has been said for it. On a disk, forty-seven one-thousandths of an inch in diameter, there were engraved 35 words with 254 letters, and nearly 2,000 lines had to be cut in it. The original pin, consequently, has not long in a sewing basket and, much the way of all pins, but a disk was made of it—no inconceivable job in itself—and the market is now supplied from the die.

Declares Education Is Best Cure for Insanity

London.—Despite the fact that in Great Britain there is today one insane person in every 200, contrasted with one in every 500 in 1870, there is no justification for the theory, as often expressed, that a process of racial degeneration is under way. In the opinion of H. J. Liddell, of the Eugenics Education Society, expressed at the recent conference of the National Union of the Professional and Industrial Blind of Great Britain.

Despite the increase in the number of insane, Mr. Liddell said, nature herself was constantly striving to regain the normal average, even in the highly organized and complex communities of the present day. Those of weak mentality, he said, attracted each other, and eventually brought about their own extinction in this way.

Mr. Liddell advocated education as the best prevention of insanity.

Girl Reported German Fleets Off Falklands

London.—When Admiral Sir Devastation's command was ordered to the Falkland Islands in the late war, it was a woman who first of all gave the information of the presence of the German fleet in these waters, according to Admiral Sir Percy Gibbs.

A fisherman told the woman he had seen ships approaching the islands from the south. She sent her maid on horseback to investigate, and the maid verified his statement. The information was at once telegraphed to the governor, and he transmitted it to Sturdee.

Study Woods Again

When four ships came into use the study of woods began to decline and the doctrine was steady until recently when the United States Department of Agriculture placed wood upon a footing of a "principal product." Galileo, upon his visit to the forest in Valda, which visit had much to do with his law upon the resistance of solid bodies, was one of the first eminent students of woods. Leonardo da Vinci was another.

Canadian Gold Output

Gains 24 Pct. in Year

Ottawa.—Canada's swift growth as a gold-producing country is disclosed in the latest government report, showing that the output, which now ranks third in the world, is exceeded only by the Transvaal and the United States. The 1922 figures for world gold production put the total output at 15,440,000 fine ounces, of which 7, 000,000 ounces came from the Transvaal. The United States supplied 2, 813,075 ounces, while Canada's share was 1,263,404 ounces or 8.2 per cent.
In comparison with the previous year, the Transvaal showed a decrease of 5.6 per cent in relation to world production, and the United States had an increase of 1 per cent, while Canada showed an increase of 24 per cent more. Accordingly, that year, more than half of the increase in gold production came outside of the Transvaal and Canada.

Quaint Haunted Village

400 Years Old Found

On the edge of what was known 400 years ago as the haunted village of Weinfeld have been unearthed in the district north of the Moselle river, which was a part of the territory occupied by American troops immediately after the armistice.

According to history, Weinfeld in 1512 was a town of some 1,000 inhabitants. An epidemic of smallpox removed all of the population except a few. A few years later a fire destroyed everything excepting the stone walls of the houses. Later wars and armies swept past and site of the village was lost.

The old village is supposed to have had a curse cast upon it because of outrages committed upon neighbors by robbers, who made their headquarters in Weinfeld.

Thieves Steal Statue as

Guardian Snakes Sleep

Hamburg.—The largest bronze snake in Germany, which occupied a prominent place in Carl Rugebeck's animal farm near Hamburg, was stolen recently by thieves who, the police said, would probably sell the statue for metal.
The bronze snake stood on a pedestal in the center of the snake yard, which is a kind of jungle so that the inhabitants might be reminded of their native haunts and feel perfectly at home.

The management believed that the snakes were better than watch dogs to guard this valuable piece of statuary.
But the thieves apparently had no fear of the thousands of sleeping reptiles within the enclosure and escaped with their loot without even being bitten at.

sociation held recently at Buist park in Centerville. It was the largest attendance in the history of the associ-

CLAIMS DISCOVERY WILL PREVENT TUBERCULOSIS

Assistant Director of Pasteur Institute Says Experiments Have Been Successful.

Paris.—Doctor Calmette, assistant director of the Pasteur Institute, announces the successful inoculation of young animals against tuberculosis in a series of experiments, the result of more than thirty years' work. The process is vaccination by living cultures of tuberculosis, the bacilli having been artificially inoculated.

"Attenuation is produced by cultivating bacilli in uninterrupted series in cow bile. After thirteen years' culture in this medium the bacilli became absolutely inoffensive, but retained its tuberculin power in the bodies into which it was injected.

Doctor Calmette first obtained his harmless tuberculosis bacilli in 1921, and began vaccination. The first experiments were on calves produced by tubercular cows. In every case when vaccination took place within the first fifteen days the calves remained perfectly healthy, although they were continually with tubercular animals.
Afterward experiments on children showed complete success. Two hundred and seventeen babies have been vaccinated and are perfectly healthy.

First Dollar Makes Three

Tripe Home in 35 Years

Danville, Ill.—Forty-two years ago M. O. Miller, former local man, earned his first dollar here. He marked his initials on the coin which was found in the year of his birth. Later he parted with the silver piece while at a circus in Bristol, Va. In the 35 intervening years the coin came back to Miller's hands three times, according to statements made in a letter to Miller's friends here.

Thirteen years after the first paring the coin was given to him in Danville in payment of car fare on the city car of which he was a conductor.
Some time later he lost the dollar.
A short time ago a tourist, buying gasoline in Indian River City, Fla., where Miller is now located, presented him the dollar for the third time.
The coin evidently has had an easy experience for it is well preserved and nearly as bright as it was at the time of the birth, in 1852.

Why "Jerkwater" Towns

For many years villages and out-of-the-way hamlets throughout the country have been called "jerkwater" towns, but few persons know where the term originated.

A version is given in the Indiana Magazine of History. In the early days of the railroad train, it was not an uncommon occurrence to stop the engine at a way-side stream to replenish the water supply. The water was carried in leather buckets.

First-class roads soon eliminated this necessity, but smaller ones, touching only villages, continued their "jerkwater" engines. Railroad men are credited with having jokingly referred to the smaller towns as "jerk water" places, and the name has stuck.

Old Cy Young Holds Major League Record

Deaton T. (Cy) Young, holds the major league record for consecutive shutouts lasting 11. pitched 45 innings in a row in which opposing teams did not make a run.

There is another record that should be bracketed with this one. It concerns a left-handed pitcher named Walter Leverenz, who worked for the St. Louis Americans several years ago.
Leverenz pitched 40 consecutive innings in which his team did not score a run for him. In other words, Leverenz was shut out six games in a row. And the peculiar part of it was that Leverenz pitched good ball in these games, his team simply could not hit, opposing pitching well enough to score one run.

JACK WARHOP STILL

HURLING IN BUSHES

Veteran Has Turned in 3-Hit Game This Season.

This seems to be a season out of the ordinary for veteran baseball pitchers.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, who is getting along in years, is pitching about the best ball of his career for the Chicago Cubs while Walter Johnson is winning frequently for Washington. Recently at College Point, Pa., I. Little Jack Warhop, who passed out of the big league nine years ago shut out the fourth Philadelphia Independents with three scattered hits.
Perhaps Johnson, Alexander and Warhop have discovered the fountain of youth. Warhop is nearing his fortieth milestone, but the followers of the College Point team are firm in their belief that the little fellow could pitch winning ball in either the National or American leagues.

"There are worse pitchers in the big league today than Warhop," said a College Point fan. "Jack is pitching real baseball for us, and it was a treat to watch him toss the ball against the bats of the Philadelphia players."

"Perhaps he has lost some of his speed, but he's a smart little pitcher and the other fellows don't get many good balls to hit at."

"He'll not throw the ball as fast as Dizzy Vance, but there's plenty of stuff on every pitch and the opposing players have their own troubles trying to solve his baffling underhand curve."

Warhop has been pitching for a long while. He first went up to the big leagues with the Detroit club in 1907.

POWATAN'S SKELETONS UNCOVERED, IS BELIEF

Smithsonian Institution to Investigate Recent Discoveries That Promise to Be Important.

Washington.—The bureau of American ethnology of the Smithsonian institution will investigate in the near future what may prove to be two of the most important discoveries yet made of relics of the Indian tribes that roamed over the site of Washington at the time the first white man visited this section.

Both discoveries were accidental.
The first was made by a farmer near Strasburg, Va., while plowing a field near Sandy creek. He uncovered seven skeletons. At first he did not attach special significance to this because the field was near the battle ground of Cedar creek in the Civil war, and it was assumed that the skeletons were those of slain soldiers.

A famous Indian band, however, was fought on nearly the same site and further investigations showed that the bodies had been buried with ceremonies typical of the early Indian tribes.

Each body had been thrust up in a cramped position and drawn into the grave. Beside each skull was a jar elaborately decorated with primitive religious symbols, which once had been filled with food to sustain the ghost in his cold passage between two worlds.

The second find was much larger and will be investigated first. The recent find was made by the Washington monument which is believed to have been an old Indian cemetery.
The center grave, around which the others seemed to be grouped, contained one skeleton measuring seven and a half feet.

Europe Again Interested

In London Dancing Girls

Danzig.—English dancing girls who disappeared from the stage of continental Europe in August, 1914, have begun to return in their former fields of activity and have even invaded Russia, where they were always popular prior to the war.

Throughout Europe before the war wherever there were variety theaters or music halls, there were English dancing girls known for their sprightly dancing combined with singing stunts. Even in old St. Petersburg, Russia, the home of the Russian ballet, the dancing girls from London were always well received.

This spring a troupe has been touring the Scandinavian cities and the Baltic states and from Danzig goes on to Finland where there have been no English performers since the soviet came into power. Later the dancers will visit Warsaw, Bucharest, Budapest, Vienna and numerous other cities. Several other troupes from London also took the road this spring and have been appearing in Rostov, St. Petersburg, Copenhagen, Berlin and other northern cities.

Rhineland.—Wm. Miss Emma H.
Hanson of Chicago caught the prize fish of the season in this vicinity when she looked a morning 4 feet 6 inches in length in Squaw Lake. It was necessary to shoot the fish before it could be safely landed.
